Excerpt from Address, on the Duty of the Slave States in the Present Crisis Before proceeding to do so, let me state the issue. It has been done for me in a late speech by Judge Roberts of our Supreme Court: The great question before the American people is: shall the institution of slavery be put upon a sure basis of gradual extinction. The Northern controlling majorities say it shall. The South say it shall not. And that is the issue. The man who would dispute that statement of the question is so far behind the times that it would take all night to get back to him. I proceed: in the same speech it is shown that the measures adopted at the North for the extinction of slavery have now gained advantages which cannot be successfully opposed, or averted, except by prompt State action, and that we are justified in pursuing that remedy to any extent that may be necessary to secure our endangered rights. After showing that a State Convention may be called, with or...
